PASSOVER BEGINS NEXT SATURDAY

The Jewish residents of this city are preparing to usher in the festival of the Passover, which commences on Saturday evening and continues for eight days. The holiday comes a little later than usual this year owing to the fact that this is a leap year in the Jewish calendar, with thirteen months instead of twelve.

The feast of Passover commemorates the redemption of the children of Israel from bondage under the leadership of Moses to found a new home in the land of Canaan. The distinguishing feature that marks the celebration is the total abstinence from leaven and the eating of unleavened wafers, called matzoh, in remembrance of the unleavened bread which the Israelites made during their hasty departure from Pharaoh's land.

The feature which brings much joy into the hearts of the little ones during the festival is the "Seder," or "home service," which is held the first two evenings. The Reformed Jews observe the "Seder" only one evening. Seated about the table are all the members of the household, and many come from afar to join their family and friends in the festivities of "Seder night." Indeed, so many families' night is a grand reunion. The scene is inspiring, for at the head of the table sits the father of the household upon a cushion, dressed in a white shroud, according to the custom of freemen in the orient, and relates the fascinating and ever-interesting story of the flight of the children of Israel from Egypt, while the remaining members of the family follow the tale as told in the books called "The Haggadah."

A morsel of grated horseradish or other bitter herb is eaten, symbolic of the bitter sufferings and pangs which their forefathers endured during their bondage in Egypt. The herb is dipped into a concoction of nuts, cinnamon and wine, symbolizing in color the clay bricks the Jews made. However, the "Seder" is purely a joyous occasion. No stranger is turned away from a Jewish home on "Seder" night. The feast is followed by the singing of quaint traditional folklore songs, to the delight of the little children, and the remembrance of a "Seder" night to a Jewish child is never eradicated.

The first two and last two days of Passover are holy days, and work is generally abstained from, while the four days between are half holidays and work is permitted. On the second day of Passover the counting of Omer commences. In all forty-nine days are counted, and on the fiftieth day the Feast of the Weeks begins.

THE ENGLISH BUDGET

Finance Minister Says That It Will Remove the Deficit

London, April 19.—David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, reintroduced last year's budget in the House of Commons Tuesday. He declared that he realized that the present deficit of $131,240,000 would be more than wiped out when all arrears had been collected, and that there would be an actual surplus of $14,000,000. If the budget had been passed usual last year, he said, there would have been a surplus of $21,000,000.

The chancellor commented upon the remarkable decrease of 32 per cent in the consumption of whiskey, which decrease he attributed mainly to the extra duty imposed. The loss in the revenue from spirits, as compared with the estimated figures, was $14,000,000.

Willard Raitt is one of the United States jurors at Portland this week. Albert W. Nowell is not one of those, but will serve as traverse juror at the May term of York county supreme court at Alfred.

Bates College Baseball Team Today

Business Transacted in the Superior Court

Some Figures from the Annual Hospital Report

Exeter, April 20.—Exeter Academy's baseball team will be given a test this afternoon when there will be an opportunity to ascertain its worth as a hard game with Bates college is expected. The Maine boys always present a strong team, and last year defeated Exeter by a score of 8 to 2. Exeter, however, expects to make the down-Easters hustle for the victory today, and some hard work was given the men yesterday afternoon. The weather was ideal for baseball, and the drill was long. Coach Walsh is not sure of the line up as he does not pick his team till after the final practice before the game, but in all probabilities it will be nearly the same as it was in Boston college game last Saturday. The game is called at 3 o'clock.

The report of the Cottage hospital for last year shows that 234 patients were treated, of whom seven died, 171 were discharged well, 50 relieved and six unrelieved, 10 remaining in the hospital at the year's close. Those paying full rates numbered 163 and 53 received free treatment. Receipts were in round numbers $7900, and expenses practically the same. Permanent funds were $4170.50 at the year's close.

The April term of the superior court came Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, and it drew together a large field of legal representatives, nearly all of the Rockingham county bar being represented, besides several from out of the county. Among the latter were Sherman E. Burroughs of Manchester, Leslie P. Snow of Rochester, Alvin J. Lucier of Nashua, County, Solicitor George T. Hughes of Dover and Attorney Galloway of Dover. Prayer was offered by Rev. George H. Driver of the First Congregational church, and Judge Robert G. Pike of Dover immediately called the docket. The reading of the docket required over two hours, and many cases were marked for jury trials.

During the afternoon several divorce cases were tried, and also many were naturalized. The petit juries will report today, when a case will be started, and the grand juries went to work early Tuesday. It is expected that they will report in a few days.

The census enumerators have been at work here since last Friday, and they find the going easy and agreeable. They are Richard E. Shute, Herbert E. Prescott and Clarence Tyler, the latter being appointed to take the place of Frank Demeritt, resigned.

The death of Mrs. William E. Ritchie occurred at Newmarket Sunday very suddenly, she falling dead after completing her washing. Mrs. Ritchie was a former resident here.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet this afternoon with Mrs. N. Dow on Front street. It is to be an experience meeting, when each member in tell "How I Earned Fifty Cents for the Union."

The members of the Third company Coast artillery, are to hold a sheet and pillow case party on Friday evening of this week, and a prize walz is also on the program.

Beard, as a result of an accident a few nights ago, when he dropped a kerosene lamp and was badly burned about the limbs and back. He was aged 82 years and was a native of Lebanon. Much of his life was spent in Farmington, where he was a member of the Lodge of Odd Fellows. Besides a son he leaves a sister.

The funeral of Mrs. Laura E. wife of Charles H. Gale, who died as a result of accidental poisoning, was held Tuesday afternoon at her residence, 51 New York street. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles F. Potter of the Central Avenue Baptist church.

The Dover woman's club closed its 10th year Tuesday. The annual meeting at Wanlanian Hall was largely attended. The reports of officers showed the club to be in a prosperous condition in membership and financially. It has a good surplus in its treasury, although much money has been expended during the year in charity. After the business meeting there was a tea.

TRUSTS WIN

Government Must Buy of Them They Bid Lowest:

Washington, April 20.—If the trust underbid other concerns offering materials needed for the construction of the Panama canal their goods must be purchased, according to an opinion rendered by the Attorney General.

Incidentally this opinion has a bearing upon an impending purchase of about $2,000,000 worth of oil.

Soon after he assumed office last year Secretary Dickinson directed that contract be entered into with an corporation which had been adjudged a party to an unlawful trust and monopoly, nor with any middleman acting for such concerns. But recently his attention was called to an act of congress of June 26, 1906, requiring that purchases of material for the Panama canal should be made from the lowest responsible bidder.

He submitted the matter to the Attorney General, who handed down the above decision.

The family bible has been more in use since the census started than for many years. The question of age and years married have driven many to hunt up the bible.

NAVAL MILITIA

Bill to Grant Same Rights as Those of National Guard

Washington, April 20.—The house committee on naval affairs will report favorably within the next few days the Foss bill to place the naval militia on the same footing with respect to the military establishment of the United States as the remainder of the national guard.

The bill provides that within three years the arms and equipment of the naval militia shall be the same as that of the leading forces of the navy, that the secretary of the navy may lend vessels, stores, equipment, etc., to the states and territories for the use of the naval militia, and that such militia may be called into the service of the United States, at the discretion of the president, and shall serve so long as he may require, either within or without territories of the United States, and that when in the actual service of the United States the militia shall be subject to the laws and regulations for the government of the navy.

Provision is made for joint maneuvers, in which the militia shall take part with the navy afloat or ashore, and officers and enlisted men of the militia may be designated for special courses of study at any military or naval school or on board ship.

The declared Porto Rico was the key by which we are to unlock South America, and that South America offered a golden opportunity for the immigrant.

He predicted that in half a century the population of South America would be increased from 25,000,000 to 50,000,000. Mr. Bryan pointed out that the United States was reaching the point where there was left little land or free land to offer the immigrants, and South America, standing much as the United States stood at the beginning of the last century, was opening up its country.

Mr. Bryan advanced his opinion that the democrats of the house

should vote for the postal savings bank bill because in his view, it involved the surest method of bringing about the guarantee feature for deposits.

While believing there were some good features in the pending railroad bill, especially those providing for government supervision of the issuance of stocks and bonds, Mr. Bryan advised his democratic friends to defeat the measure because he thought its bad feature outweighed its desirable provisions.

San Francisco, through the Spreckels financial interests, is already preparing a campaign for a $2,000,000 fund, of which one-half will be taken up by the Spreckels interests themselves. It is believed that New York financiers, closely identified with the Californians, will share pro rata in undertaking the financing of the exposition. As the plans stand now, for every two millions of private capital the government will be contributing half as much. This plan, it is said, has the support of influential members of the Senate and House.

Senator Perkins is on record for a great naval demonstration at San Francisco at the time of the exposition. This means the assembling of the largest part of the American fleet on the Pacific coast.

Bryan So Tells Committee on Insular Affairs

Washington, April 20.—William J. Bryan, fresh from a trip in South America, the Isthmus and Porto Rico, came to the capital Tuesday to urge congress to appropriate for the extermination of the hook worm in Porto Rico and establish a Pan-American college there.

Poor tired boy, the befogged brain had destroyed the clarity of vision. He could not see his way through life, the way had grown misty, the stars did not shine, the birds did not sing, and because of this poisonous despondency, and morbid broodings young men and women, by the hundreds of poor mistaken human beings make the attempt at self destruction, I say attempt, because nobody ever succeeds in finding life, other than this one earthly phase. This should be a lesson to the suicidally inclined that death does not destroy life and the forces that are for us are more than those that are against us.

WOLTER FACES MRS. WHEELER

Mother of Slain Girl Is In Court as a Witness

JURYMEN ARE SELECTED

Prosecution Admits Depending Largely Upon Circumstantial Evidence to Convict Youth of Strangulation and Incineration of Fifteen-Year-Old Stenographer—Finding of Body in Apartments of Wolter Described

New York, April 20.—Albert Wolter sat in court yesterday afternoon and faced the mother of Ruth Wheeler, the 16-year-old stenographer, with whose murder he stands charged.

He did not wince, but his eyes evaded the mother's, and his glance roamed about the courtroom from jury box to press table, thence to the spectators; but at no time during Mrs. Wheeler's testimony did he openly evince emotion. Mrs. Wheeler was called as the third witness by the state.

The jury box had been filled shortly after the opening of the afternoon session, and Frank Moss, assistant district attorney, had delivered the opening address for the prosecution.

Mr. Moss spoke calmly, and in a low, even tone, which made more gruesome harrowing details of the murder.

He admitted that the state would depend largely on circumstantial evidence, "but," he said, "I shall show that her death was caused by strangulation. I shall show you the cord that was wound around her neck and sank into the tissue. I shall show you that strangulation and incineration were not the only injuries inflicted on that poor girl's body, and the person who killed her, I shall prove, is Albert Wolter."

During this recital Wolter showed some evidence of emotion. His breath came short and fast, and he intently scanned the faces of the jurors as if noting the effect of the prosecutor's words. When Moss had closed, however, the prisoner quickly regained his composure.

Mrs. Wheeler testified after an architect had identified a diagram of Wolter's room, where the body was found, and after John Taggart, a waiter, who lived in an adjoining apartment, had described how he and his wife found the bundle in which the upper part of Ruth Wheeler's body was wrapped. This bundle was pushed from a fire escape, and subsequently opened in the yard below.

Taggart gave a horrifying description of the opening of the sack, but Wolter apparently was unconcerned. Pearl and Adelaide Wheeler accompanied their mother to court. Moss announced that only two days more would be needed to complete the prosecution's case.

Escaping Girl Is Taken Back Home and Her Companion Arrested

Portsmouth, N. H., April 20.—An irate father who had followed his eloping daughter across Massachusetts and to this city from Lynn, caused the arrest of Charles W. March, 23 years old, of Lynn, who was found in a lodging house with Miss Flora Gould, also of Lynn.

Marsh, on his examination by the police, admitted having two children living in Lynn, but declared that he had never acknowledged their mother as his wife.

The runaway girl was allowed to go back home with her father, and Marsh was held by the court.

F. A. Bishop, who is well known in this city, was a bachelor when Three Twins company, of which he is stage manager, played their first engagement at the Hub, but since leaving Boston Mr. Bishop has succeeded to the charms of one of the delightful young women of the company and recently in Cincinnati became a Benedict. The bride, Miss Maude Elliott, takes one of the smaller parts.

The London critics were so much pleased with Mr. Beecham's operatic performances that they gave him a dinner. That could not have happened here. The New York critics are never pleased with anybody's performances. They remind one of the boy's question: "Papa, what is a musical critic?" and papa's answer: "A musical critic, my boy, is a man whom all music irritates."—New York Evening Post.

At meeting of the Paris senate recently higher government subsidies were asked for than at the theatres. The request was the direct result of the success of New York in drawing the most important operatic stars of Europe by the lure of its dollars. The official explanation was that the public is not attracted to the opera in Paris because so many great artists have gone to America, and that more money is needed to compete with the high salaries paid in this country.

In two weeks George Ade will go direct to his summer home at Brook, Ind., and put the finishing touches on "The Slim Princess," in which play Charles B. Dillingham will pilot Elsie Janis next season.

Viola Allen is planning to be abroad this year on her vacation trip. The particular attraction which takes her across the water is the Oberammergau "Passion Play." Mr. James O'Neill, who at one time appeared in an English adaptation of the play, will also make the journey for the same purpose.

Blanche Walsh is to be seen next season in new play by Hartley Manshers which is named "Barbarossa."

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hitchcock will sail for Europe late in May and spend June and July motoring on the continent.

It has been ascertained that Ibsen was not a Norwegian. But in the current Nineteenth Century Halvdan Kobt adds proof, not only that Ibsen's ancestors had lived in Norway for generations and had had their minds molded in the social and intellectual life of that country, but also that among his immediate ancestors were some of pure Norwegian descent.

Katherine Grey quickly tired of her Australian tour and is on her way back home.

It is an odd fact that "Mark" Short, who plays the part of the kiddie in "A Man's World," is really a girl with the name of Gertrude, while the "baby girl" who plays in Francis Wilson's comedy, "The Bachelor's Baby," is in reality a boy. Stage managers declare, however, that youthful aspirants to stardom are much better when playing the opposite sex.

Pianists who give a recital in Dresden are required to pay a special tax of 30 marks for the poor fund. It has been suggested that most of them after paying the money, might get part of it back by showing the amount of their deficit.

Although he is "only 60," the Stockholm public is fearing that Arvid Odman, its favorite tenor, may retire. He sang Fra Diavolo the other night to the great delight of the faithful citizens of Stockholm, who heard him first 37 years before. He was born on Oct. 18, 1850, at Karlsbad, and made his debut in 1873 at Tamino, in "Il Flauto Magico" in the opera house to which he is still attached. He has sung all the lyric tenor roles.

Mrs. Henry Wood, who wrote "East Lynne," was scarcely less popular in her day, through a single novel, than was Harriet Beecher Stowe in America. Mrs. Ellen Wood was born in England in 1820 and died in 1887. Her novel was first presented in dramatic form at the Drury Lane theatre, London, in 1856. Since then it has been played in nearly every country and every tongue of the globe.

Pauline Chase, who created the part of Peter Pan in London, will travel 6000 miles by sea in order to appear for six hours at the actors' fun fair in New York, Tuesday, May 10. She has gathered autographed photographs of all the celebrated English authors and actors and these she will auction off during the evening of the fair. She will remain in New York only over night and will pull the next morning in order to meet her engagements on the continent.

The Covent garden opera management, which opens its season April 23 with Tannhauser in "La Traviata," has a larger subscription this year than ever before. The king and queen head the subscription list.

"The Florist Shop," which Oliver Herford translated from the French, is now being metamorphosed into a musical comedy. Henry W. Savage has engaged Lionel Walsh for his original role of Clarence Perkins.

Mme. Rejane, who is appearing at the London hippodrome, announces that she is interested in a project to form a permanent French theatre in London. A small theatre, a "coquettish little place," as she describes it, is what she wants, and in such a house she would produce only modern plays.

The latest Parisian success is the comedy called "The Sacred Wood" ("Le Bois Sacré"), by Gaillavat and De Flers, authors of "Le Roi," "Inconstant George" and "Love Watchers." Their new play is a satire on French officialdom and relates the adventures of a fascinating lady, who is intriguing to get the Cross of the Legion of Honor. Charles Frohman will produce it in New York next autumn.

John E. Hazzard, who is playing the principal comedy rôle with Fritz Scheff in "The Prima Donna," is known to fame as the author of the "Ain't It Awful, Mabel" verses. Besides having perpetrated this, Mr. Hazzard has written some really creditable sentimental and light verse.

E. M. FIELD IN HOSPITAL

Son of Atlantic Cable Layer Taken to Bellevue

New York, April 20.—Edward Morse Field, fifty-five years old, son of Cyrus W. Field, who laid the first cable across the Atlantic, was taken to Bellevue Hospital last night suffering from an attack of nephritis. His condition is so serious there is little hope of his recovery.

Though he was left a large fortune when his father died, Field lost his money in speculation, and for some time has been living at the Salvation Army Home, No. 18 Chatburn square, Major Erickson of the Salvation Army and S. J. Stone, an attorney and old friend of the Field family, accompanied the sick man to the hospital.

IS OFF FOR PARIS

Roosevelts Receive a Most Remarkable Welcome in Hungary.

Budapest, April 20.—Theodore Roosevelt and his son Kermit left here last night by the Orient express for Paris. Instead of crossing Switzerland, the route runs north through the Austrian Alps and southern Germany, entering France at Avranches.

Enthusiasm for Roosevelt increased to the moment of his departure. Hundreds cheered in front of the hotel when he left for a visit to the government stock farm at Babolna, where the breeding of Arab horses is carried on, and thousands were massed about the station when he returned last night. They greeted him with Hungarian cries, equivalent to the American "Hurrah" for Roosevelt.

The packed streets echoed the cries as he passed, and this demonstration was thrice repeated later during the evening. A frantic multitude waited until midnight to see him off.

The same popular enthusiasm was displayed seventy miles from Buda Peat, on the drive from the railroad to Babolna. The party was conveyed through thatched-roofed villages, decorated with crude American flags, under hastily constructed triumphal arches, amid the shouts of the entire populace.

The polling on the strike question was conducted Monday and Monday night, and the result of the vote was announced Tuesday afternoon. The men demand a wage scale ranging from 22½ cents to 27½ cents an hour.

SOLAR PLEXUS PUNCH ENDS NEGRO'S LIFE

Fatal Result of Lightweight Contest at Philadelphia

Philadelphia, April 20.—Frank Cole, a negro lightweight prize fighter, died Tuesday of injuries sustained Monday night in a bout with Stanley Rodgers. Cole was knocked out in the third round of a bout at Jack O'Brien's club, being sent to the floor by a solar plexus punch. His head hit the mat with terrific force, fracturing his skull. He never regained consciousness.

Rodgers was held without bail pending the decision of the coroner, while Jack O'Brien was jailed as accessory to killing of the fighter in the club. Several witnesses and the referee were also arrested.

Mr. Bryan had previously called on Speaker Cannon and remained in the latter's office for fifteen minutes.

"We didn't talk politics at all," said the speaker afterwards. "Mr. Bryan is a busy man and we just exchanged a few words. We have known each other for a long time, you know."

NAVY YARD WORKMANSHIP.

In a speech in the House of Representatives on April 8, Hon. John A. Kelther, member from Massachusetts said that the government should utilize its navy yards for the construction of a part of its battleships.

He said in part: "Conceding that the original cost of the Louisiana, built by the Newport News Shipbuilding Company, was $6,027,344.47, and that of the Connecticut, built in the Brooklyn yard by the government, was $6,897,308.22, or 5 per cent more, the fact remains that this saving on the initial cost has long since been dissipated by the greater cost for repairs and changes necessary for the Louisiana in the four years of its life. In that time the government-built ship, the Connecticut, has cost the government in essential repairs $11,832.56, while the Louisiana, built in a private shipyard, has cost for the same purpose $149,167, or about 33 per cent more. When we consider that in arriving at the original cost, the Louisiana was built under vastly different economic conditions, it was built in a yard where the mechanics, skilled and unskilled, were paid a lower and were worked a ten-hour day. In the government yard eight hours constitute a day's labor. Inspection is more rigid and a higher standard of workmanship required."

Upon this phase of the question, Mr. Kelther called attention to the article in the Scientific American which was editorially quoted in this paper fifteen days ago.

We have always contended that the government should use our navy yard as Mr. Kelther has stated, and we will welcome the day it will be done.

with regard to size, style and general beauty of the fruit. There is no question about it, but when it comes to flavor there is no apple grown West of the Hudson River which will compare for a moment with the New England grown apple.

Western apples are to the New England palate flavorless and inclined to be "punky." The Eastern apple growers do not consider themselves in competition with the Western-grown fruit for the very reason named. For instance, no one wanting a barrel of New England Baldwin or Northern Spy apples would think of taking instead Western apples, so that there cannot be any real competition. The Western box apples are popular in New England at a certain season when New England apples for seasonal use are scarce.—New England Grocer.

It Doesn't Help

If women who are fighting for the ballot would show a little more discretion, a little more self-control, a little more toleration for those who are honest and courteously disagree with them, they would help their own cause materially.

The spectacle of a crowd of suffragists kissing a president of the United States because he said something that annoyed them is not calculated to impress the law-making part of humanity, or even the majority of women, with the idea that the leaders in the movement are quite prepared to take part in what Mr. Taft aptly called "the conduct of affairs."

Woman will have the ballot when, as a class, she shows that she wants it. She cannot hurry matters by exhibitions of temper.—Boston Post.

NEW TURKISH NAVY

Two Battleships and Cruiser to be Built in England

Constantinople, April 20.—Instead of inviting bids and making their orders for new naval vessels a matter of public adjudication, the government has decided to come to a private arrangement with a British group, composed of Armstrong, Whitworth and Co., Vickers, Sons and Maxim, and John Brown and Co., three of the most important shipbuilding and engineering firms in Great Britain.

The work of the group will be covered by the $25,500,000 recently voted by the Turkish Parliament for extraordinary naval expenses.

The group will supply two battleships of 16,500 tons displacement, one armored cruiser, capable of steaming twenty-four knots, and some small units which will be built here at the Imperial arsenal, which is shortly to be provided with a floating dock.

Newburyport, April 20.—David M. French, a well known sculptor, died at his home, 60 Washington street on Tuesday, aged about 83 years. He was born at Newmarket, N. H., and studied with P. Stevenson, a well known Boston sculptor. Coming here in 1864, he established a studio on Pleasant street, which he occupied until he retired several years ago.

His most important work was the creation of a life size statue of William Lloyd Garrison, which occupies a prominent position in Brown square and which was dedicated July 4, 1883. His specialty was making busts in marble and clay.

Mr. French was a member of the Congregational church. He leaves a wife.

Slum an Enemy to Business

THE worst enemy of business is the slum. About eighty-five per cent of the people of this country are classed by the sociological experts as poor or very poor. Whatever tends to increase this sort of poverty strikes in two ways at the heart of business. It interferes with consumption and it interferes with production. Nothing could be worse.

In the last twenty-five years England and Germany have entered upon a desperate duel for the commercial kingdom of the world. At the beginning England was everything in international commerce, and Germany was next to nothing. Now, to speak quite plainly, Germany, fighting with skill and tenacity, is the assured victor in the battle, and England is going down to defeat. How did Germany manage to make such a marvellous showing in this tremendous conflict?

The secret of Germany's success is no secret at all to those who know the relative condition of her working population and England's. England has allowed the slum to take care of itself and the slum has turned upon her and eaten out the heart of her strength. The real strength of a nation is not her banks, palaces, rich men, armaments, guns, battleships, splendors, park lanes, royal state, pomp and circumstance; the real strength is her men that work with their hands.

That is her only asset worth talking about, her physical condition depends upon their physical condition. England has allowed her working population to deteriorate in slums; Germany has labored to abolish the slum and to rear her working populations in the full measure of health and vigor. When the two working populations clash in the commercial battle, down goes the English line.

DEAD AT HIS POST

Telegraph Operator at a Boston and Maine Station

Franklin, April 20.—When Thomas McVeagh, the relief or night telegraph operator at Halycon station of the Central Massachusetts division of the Boston and Maine railroad, went to work Tuesday night to be noticed a light burning in the toilet room, and on entering the room, found the man whom he came to relieve dead on the floor. He had had an epileptic fit and met a sudden death.

The name of the day operator was supposed to be M. E. Wright, but search of his effects after the startling recovery of his death revealed the fact that this was an assumed name.

In his coal pocket was a letter addressed "Dear Son" to W. H. Fink from his father, one Thomas Fink. The letter was dated Stevenson, N. Y. The authorities here are now endeavoring to communicate with the elder Mr. Fink to find out for certain the identity of the dead man.

Fink or Wright had for some time been the telegraph operator at Halycon passenger station. He was a former employee of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and worked previously for the Boston and Maine at West Lebanon. He was 35 years old and of a quiet unassuming nature. He had no family here.

COAST ARTILLERY NOTES

An examination for the place of corporal in the First company of this city will be held at the armory Friday evening, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of David McIntosh.

Commencing the first of May the companies at Portsmouth, Dover, Exeter and Laconia will receive instructions on coast defence by regular army officers.

The new line, if built, would follow the north side of the Chicopee river from Chicopee to Bondsville, through a territory which is so slightly developed that land damages would be very small. It would also open that territory for industrial development, and doubtless bring into service within a few years the splendid water power there that is now going to waste.

SANITARY SURVEY

Condition of Local Food Supply in State Being Looked Up

Concord, April 20.—State Food and Drug Inspector Wallace F. Purrington, who is making a "sanitary survey" of the state, under the direction of the state board of health, was in Manchester Tuesday looking into the condition which governs the slaughter houses and other places supplying that city with meat. He was accompanied by Health Officer Blake of Manchester.

Professor Purrington visited several places and will return to finish his work there today. Of the places visited only two were found to be anywhere near satisfactory, the other being operated in a highly unsanitary and uncleanly manner.

The state board of health is conducting this sanitary survey with a view to ascertaining the exact condi-

MR. GEORGE

SECRETARY OF CONGRESSMAN
SULLOWAY DIED SUDDENLY AT WASHINGTON.

Mr. George A. Bailey of Manchester and Washington, D. C., private secretary to Congressman Sulloway, died suddenly while in the committee room at the capitol Tuesday, the sad and unexpected news being received by Mrs. Bailey and his daughter, Mrs. A. B. Dickey, at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Bailey has been quite ill but the reports received during the past few days were most favorable and no alarm was felt by his family and friends; the news of his death coming as a great shock to them.

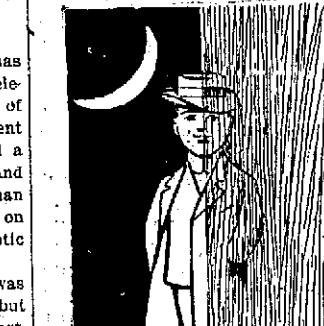

While the immediate cause of his death and the circumstances surrounding it have not yet been learned, it is known that he was about again and had resumed his work, going to his duties as usual Tuesday morning.

It will be recalled that Dr. Bailey suffered a severe illness about a year ago and had never quite regained the health which was his previous to that time. He was one of the best-known men in the state, having been for many years at the head of the Good Templars organization, and was politically strong, his affiliation with Congressman Sulloway dating back sixteen years to the beginning of his congressional career, a position which he filled with an efficiency which made his service valuable.

Dr. Bailey was born at West Boylston, Mass., but had made Manchester his home for many years. His age was sixty-three years. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Francesca Bailey, and daughter, Mrs. Arthur B. Decker, to whom deep and sincere sympathy is extended at this time.

When Cooking is a Pleasure.

When you can go into the kitchen, light the gas and in five minutes have everything boiling, then it's a pleasure to cook. No dirt, smoke or soot; no heat, except at the burner, which as there is practically no radiation, amounts to nothing.

To tell the truth, lady, we think any woman is foolish to swelter over a hot cook stove. And if you only knew how little it costs to do all your work with gas, we don't believe you'd put up without it another day. Why not come in and let us tell you about it.

FAKE COMPETITION

One of the Features of the High
Price of Food

St. Louis, April 20.—The high price of meat is due partly to fictitious competition in bidding for cattle between buyers employed by Swift, Armour and Morris, and buyers employed by the National Packing company, which is controlled by those interests, according to testimony given by A. N. Benn, vice president of the St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision company, in the investigation of the packing companies by Attorney General Major.

To this "competition" between concerns ostensibly rivals but really under the same control, the witness specifically attributed the recent price of $11.15 for hogs.

Benn testified that buyers posing as representing the National company, but in fact representing Armour, Swift and Morris, frequently bid against the buyers employed by these firms and thus forced up the price of meat.

J. Ogden Armour and A. W. Armour, E. F. L. F. and C. H. Swift, and Edward Morris were named by Benn in his testimony in the meat hearing here as directors in the $15,000,000 National Packing Company, which owns and controls the Dressed Beef Company and other so-called "independent" giants.

Benn, who is assistant to the President of the National Packing Company in Chicago, admitted that the National Packing company is a holding corporation, holding the stock of twenty-three packing plants and refrigerator companies.

SCHLEY BELIEVES IN DR. COOK

Washington, April 20.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, still has one firm supporter in the person of Rear Admiral Schley.

"When, after painstaking study, I have reached a conclusion, it takes more than an Archimedean lever to move me. It was in that way that I studied the claims of Dr. Cook and I have not changed and see no reason to change my belief that he really reached the North Pole."

In this fashion Admiral Schley disposed of a rumor that he, too, had abandoned Cook.

"It is my belief," he continued, "that both Cook and Peary reached the pole and I think the best witness Dr. Cook has of the truth of his story is Peary himself. I cannot see how any impartial man can compare the accounts of the two men without coming to the conclusion that one might have been written by the other and that they both saw what they described.

When Marco Polo returned from his long residence in India, China and Corea, not even members of his own family would believe the tales he told.

"I think the American people are apt to be a little hysterical at the outset, but we settle down and get the right view finally."

MARK TWAIN IS WEAKER

Redding, Ct., April 20.—Though steadily growing weaker, Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) has his chief reliance against the uneven battle for life in the robust humor which made him famous.

Fully realizing the odds against him the aged humorist is courteously awaiting the unknowable, and even as his physical strength palpably fails, there are bright flashes of his wit in his speech with his physicians and nurses. But all about him feel that the end is near.

Today he is reported by Dr. Robert H. Halsey of New York, his constant attendant, as being comfortable, but perceptibly weaker.

Mr. Clemens is still in perfect possession of all his faculties, and when his weakness permits speech his utterances are bright and cheery.

The presence at Stormfield of his favorite daughter, Clara, wife of Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the Russian pianist, who arrived at Stormfield Sunday, after a hasty journey from Europe, is a great comfort to the aged humorist.

He was, for a great many years, in fact up to his last illness, a faithful and efficient messenger in the general store at the navy yard.

He married Marinda N. Parker of Concord, and she with one daughter survive.

Mr. Lang was a life-long republican and served in the common council for several terms. He was an active member of Storer Post, No. 1, G.A.R., of Osgood Lodge, I. O. O. F., Sagamore Lodge, Knights of Honor, and for years an attendant of the Methodist church.

MR ALFRED

M. LANG

CIVIL WAR VETERAN PASSES AWAY AT HIS HOME.

M. Alfred M. Lang, one of the best-known war veterans of this city, died shortly after six o'clock on Tuesday evening, at his home on Austin street, after an illness of several months.

Mr. Lang was born May 12, 1840, in this city, and after attending the public schools he learned the mason's trade, which he worked at until 1862, when the war broke out. He enlisted in the navy as an ordinary seaman and remained there until February, 1864, when he was discharged and immediately enlisted in the army, in Company A, 32d Maine Regiment, Vol. Inf., and he went out with the first battalion and got right into the thick of the fighting.

He was in the battles of Spotsylvania Court House, Cold Harbor, Chapin Farm and Petersburg. In this last battle he lost his left arm. After leaving the hospital he was mustered out December 1, 1864, and at once returned to this city.

He was, for a great many years, in fact up to his last illness, a faithful and efficient messenger in the general store at the navy yard.

He married Marinda N. Parker of Concord, and she with one daughter survive.

Mr. Lang was a life-long republican and served in the common council for several terms. He was an active member of Storer Post, No. 1, G.A.R., of Osgood Lodge, I. O. O. F., Sagamore Lodge, Knights of Honor, and for years an attendant of the Methodist church.

POLICE RESERVES WERE NEEDED AT GOULD WEDDING

New York, April 20.—Shortly after 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Marjorie daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, and Anthony Drexel, Jr., of Philadelphia were married in St. Bartholomew's church by Bishop Scarborough of New Jersey. The church was crowded with an assemblage rep-sister of the bridegroom. She is betrothed to Guy Montague George Finch-Hatton, Viscount Maldstone, who also crossed the Atlantic for the affair.

Brother is Best Man.

Armstrong Drexel, elder brother of the bridegroom, attended the latter, the ushers being Viscount Maldstone's sons. Representatives of society from every Eastern city reached here for the nuptials. St. Bartholomew's church was magnificently decorated, the finishing touches being put on this morning. A unique feature of the wedding was the program of vocal music accompanied by organ and violin, planned for half an hour before the beginning of the ceremony while the guests assembled.

The customary luncheon for the bridesmaids, immediately before the ceremony was not given.

After the ceremony, however, a reception and breakfast took place at the Gould mansion, No. 857 Fifth avenue.

The bridegroom, the son of Anthony J. Drexel, banker of Philadelphia and London, is but two years the senior of his nineteen-year-old bride. Miss Gould insisted on having and Noel Griffith of London, Craig Biddle and John Fell of Philadelphia, representative of society circles of all the larger Eastern cities.

Shortly before the ceremony a sensation was caused by an attempt of the immense crowd that surrounded the church to enter the edifice and make off with the priceless flowers with which it was banked. Poised reserves had to be called to quell the disturbance.

Climb on Bridal Auto.

A crowd of 600 men and women gathered in the rain outside of the church, crowded around Miss Gould's automobile when she arrived. The police reserves were swept aside, and many men, in their anxiety to obtain a glimpse of the bride, climbed on the automobile. It was with great difficulty that a path was cleared for them to enter the church.

The great church was crowded at the time, 3,000 church invitations having been issued.

This wedding of two Americans was a far more splendid affair than any international marriage of recent the ceremony performed by Bishop Scarborough of New Jersey, as he confirmed her. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's, and the Rev. Mr. Mathews were selected to assist Bishop Scarborough.

Miss Virgian Gould, sister of the bride, her maid of honor, will make her debut in society next season. The bridesmaid, Miss Margaretta Drexel, who came from England with her parents for the ceremony, is a representative of society circles of all the larger Eastern cities.

Miss Virgian Gould, sister of the bride, her maid of honor, will make her debut in society next season. The bridesmaid, Miss Margaretta Drexel, who came from England with her parents for the ceremony, is a cousin of the bridegroom, and another cousin, William Rhinelander Stewart; Julius W. Noyes and the brothers of the bride, Jay and Kingdon Gould. Miss Dorothy Randolph, one of the bridesmaids, is engaged to John Fell.

The fortune in presents sent the couple was kept under close guard by detectives. From the immediate family were gifts the value of a king's ransom. Mrs. Gould's was a plaster of diamonds and sapphires of exquisite workmanship. A diamond bracelet from Paris was Frank Gould's gift, while George J. Gould gave his daughter an Oriental collar of diamonds of graduated size, with a diamond pendant and the $500,000 house, magnificently furnished, at No. 1015 Fifth Avenue.

Marjorie Gould, already famous for her beauty, chose for her bridesmaids some of the most beautiful girls in society, the list including Miss Hope Hamilton, her cousin; Miss Marjorie A. Curtis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Hollbrook Curtis; Miss Beatrice Claffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Claffin; Miss Elsie Nicoll and Miss Dorothy Randolph of Philadelphia. Another sister of the bride was selected to take part in the service, Miss Edith, acting with Miss Ellen Mackey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Mackey, as flower girl.

Up to the hour of the wedding breakfast the great cake and the boxes for its distribution were under police guard at No. 217 West Sixty-eighth street, where Mrs. Helen C. Brown constructed it. The boxes, 800 of them, cost $2,600. The immediate family received the cake in silver boxes, the others in heart shaped white satin covered receptacles.

QUITE A RECORD

The ideal weather of Sunday proved a great temptation to some of our young people to take a good exercise in the open air. So a merry party consisting of Charles Clifford Burns, Miss Annie McCarthy, May Fernald and Mary Hennessey, started for Rye. They walked as far as Rand's corner, then after a short rest, continued to Jennings beach. And made the trip in less than two hours. The return trip was made on foot also.

They certainly deserve the title "champion walkers," and with a little practice, will some time establish a record equal to that of Edward Payson Weston.

Theatrical Topics

Primrose's Minstrels

The frequent applause which attended the performance of George Primrose's Minstrels last night at the Empire theatre, the first performance of the week's engagement of this organization at that theatre, showed conclusively that the popular taste for this kind of entertainment has suffered no diminution in the years.

In addition to the general excellence of the bill there is another feature of attraction in the presence this week of George Wilson, the noted minstrel, who makes his first appearance with Primrose, his erstwhile partner since they began to play apart 25 years ago. The announcement that both these old-time and ever-popular favorites were to be seen together on the one stage was enough to draw out a well-filled house last night, one of the notable things about the attendance being the great number of elderly persons who were present and who revived their memories of the old days of the Barlow, Wilson, Primrose and West minstrels—in witnessing the performance.

Included in the company are the comedians Joe Dunlevy, Governor Bowen, Fred Henderson; Frank Lum, Frank Harvey, S. Lewis and Jack Clark, and the vocalists Harry Stevens, Ross Harvey, Edward Powers, Thomas Weir, Wilbur Klinck, Will Oakdale and Blondell. The voices blend well and all the musical numbers are carried through with a swing that is evening.

The opening overture includes a series of the negro melodies of the present time and the customary stories by the end men. In the first part George Primrose sings his popular song, "Waltz Me Bill," followed by a dance step that caught last night's house. George Wilson appeared in "Some Song" and received a warm welcome. The other members of the company sang several popular songs. The first part concluded with the burlesque, "Mine, Rascally and Her Famous Female Band," in which Governor Brown appeared as Mine, Rascally.

In the olio George Primrose scored heavily with his graceful dancing specialty, in which he showed the steps as danced by the most noted minstrels of the past. Then followed George Wilson in a series of funny stories and songs which took well with his audience. Joseph Dunlevy and the "Guess Who Girls" presented a novel singing and dancing sketch, and Blondell, in vocal selections, had the audience guessing at his female impersonation. The Church City Quartet, Bright, Stevens, Harvey and Weir, presented a series of melodious songs and concluded the olio.

The second part was the singing and dancing spectacular production by George Primrose, entitled "Down Town," a unique representation of scenes in the Sunny South. There are four scenes in this part of the program, and they give the members of the company an opportunity to sing and dance in merry measure, from beginning to end. The first scene shows the levee at New Orleans and the loading of the stern-wheeler Robert E. Lee, the second shows the steamer sailing far distant up the river, the third the darkies returning from the cotton field and the last their arrival at home, the whole being an original and entertaining combination of songs and dancing, backed by harmonious scenic appurtenances. Providence Journal, April 19.

Uncle Tom

Whenever you think of it, ask your oldest relative to name the finest play he or she ever attended. It is safe to wager the answer will be, Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," a play that has survived all others, and today gives every promise of lasting through all time to come. Hundreds of new productions are offered during each succeeding theatrical season at an aggregate expense of thousands of dollars. The majority of these prove tank failures, some survive for a year or two, while a limited few are successes. The latter endure for a few years, with gradually diminishing power to attract the public. Then comes the time when they are withdrawn from the stage, for to continue them would mean a losing venture.

Other features will be the Flying Banjards, a big aerial acrobatic act; the 3 Vagrants, European street singers, Hilda Hawthorne, the female ventriloquist; Brady and Mahoney in a comedy sketch; the Daleys in a roller skating specialty and others.

SLASHED BICYCLE TIRES

William Noyes was arrested by Officer Kelley at 8:25, Tuesday evening, charged with slashing the tires of two bicycles. The officer was on his beat on Congress street, when two lads informed him that a man was in the alleyway between the Jackson express company and the National block, slashing the tires of a bicycle. The officer arrived and caught the fellow in the act and placed him under arrest.

At the station he denied everything, but was locked up and will be before court this forenoon. Two bicycles were badly damaged, both having the tires badly slashed with a knife. It is supposed that Noyes fell up against the wheels and then in rage pulled out a knife and slashed the tires, for he did not know the owner of either of the wheels, who were Frank Grace and William Matterson.

ITALY ANGRY AT ARGENTINA

Rome, April 20.—The Vita states that the Duke of the Abruzzi will not go to Argentina to represent Italy at the coming Buenos Aires exhibition, because of the circumstances beyond his control.

It is believed that this has something to do with the award by the Argentine government of the contract for the construction of two battleships to an American firm, the Fore River Shipbuilding company, at Quincy, Mass.

It was stated at the time of the award that the Italian government was displeased at this because Italian firms had submitted lower bids than the American company, and that it would show its displeasure by not sending a prince of the royal blood in command of the fleet going to the Buenos Aires exposition. The Duke of the Abruzzi is a rear admiral in the navy and is a prince of the blood royal.

ANDREW MACK WEDS HIS LEADING LADY

New York, April 20.—It became known today that Andrew Mack, the Irish singing comedian, and Miss Katherine Murphy, his leading lady in "The Prince of Bohemia," were quietly married in Jersey City, Saturday afternoon by Justice of the Peace Edward Markley. The romance developed on a successful road tour. Mr. Mack was married under his real name, William Andrew McAloon, and gave his age as forty-six. Miss Humphrey said she was the daughter of James Humphrey of Asbury Park, and admitted thirty-two years. The party came from Asbury Park to Jersey City in an automobile. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McAloon went by automobile to Atlantic City for a brief honeymoon.

ATTORNEY SUES MRS. EDDY'S SON

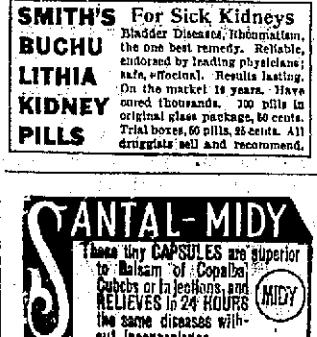

Deadwood, S. D., April 20.—Suit has been filed here against George W. Glover of Lead, S. D., son of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, Christian Science leader, by his attorney, for legal services rendered during the famous suit in which Glover figured as next friend of his mother and sought to obtain a share of her estate. Following a settlement of the suit, it was reported that Glover had received $100,000 from his mother.

There is a special meeting of the executive committee of the Country club called for April 22, when the applications of eight candidates for membership will be acted upon. This makes about thirty members admitted so far this spring.

Valuable Advice to Sufferers from Skin Disease

Under no circumstances should medicated or plain soap or any preparation containing alcohol or water, be used by sufferers from eczema and similar skin troubles. Those things aggravate the trouble and make it impossible for the skin to heal. The new medical compound called Cadum is the best and surest remedy, as it contains neither water nor alcohol. When applied, it excludes the air and other irritating agents, stops the itching at once, and sets up the healing process immediately. Most wonderful cures are reported from all sections. WANT THE ROADS FIXED

The Biddeford Journal publishes the following:

Automobilists notice that "that bad stretch of road" through the Kennebunk woods is still in the Unlight. There are about seven miles of it and it is as bad as ever, perhaps a little more so, say some. This stretch of bad road is right on the way between Boston and Portland. All the tourists coming this way from the Bay state have to pass over it or they must go miles out of the way.

There has for a long time been a sentiment that this piece of highway should be fixed up. If it were put in a condition like the rest of the road there would be a good trunk line between the chief city of Massachusetts and the chief city of Maine. With this piece of road repaired so automobilists say, there would be hundreds of tourists come into the state who do not get here at all.

The trip from Boston to Portland is regarded as a convenient afternoon jaunt. It is said that there are many automobilists in the Hub who would make the run to Portland on a Saturday afternoon, pass the night and Sunday there and return late Sunday afternoon. But as it is now, with the bad stretch of road, they do not want to run the chance of getting stuck in the mud so they do not come any farther than Portsmouth. They will pass their Sundays there and in that vicinity and return to Boston later. It is pointed out that if the road were repaired, there would probably be much more automobile traffic through the otherwise beautiful country.

MARY GARDEN

Says She Must Have an Apology from Oscar Hammerstein

Paris, April 20.—In an interview Miss Mary Garden stated that she will not sing at the Manhattan Opera House again unless Oscar Hammerstein apologizes to her for his treatment of her during the past season. "He showed himself too mean and I told him so," said the singer. "His argument was that having paid me in dollars instead of francs I ought to refund the difference. A matter of a few pauper dollars is the reason for the rupture. The hint in the Parisian papers that there is a woman in the case is pure fiction. I suppose the papers' says this because the charming Frenchmen cannot conceive of a dispute for any other reason.

"I shall be sorry to leave America," Miss Garden went on, "but after all I think the best policy to keep away and be desired, I shall stay a year in Paris and then go to Vienna for another year. Nothing has been definitely settled so far. Mr. Hammerstein will be here shortly and I dare say he will surrender."

four courses.

An eighteen-hole course at the York Country club which this year will be materially improved, the work having already started; the Abenaki Golf club at Rye beach, a good nine-hole course, and now this will be made into an eighteen-hole course; the additional nine holes having been laid out this spring and the work started so that they will be playable by opening of the season; the Wentworth house golf course of nine holes, on which several hundred dollars have been expended during the past year, and with more for this season; making it a very attractive nine-hole course; the Portsmouth Country club is the last of these, and while it has the last offer at the present time, when the improvements now started are finished it will compare favorably with any of them.

This year about $1200 will be expended in lengthening out two of the holes and making a new one and at the same time giving the fair greens much needed attention. These improvements will not be ready until next year, but in that time the course should be a very interesting one. A golf course is a big advantage to any summer resort, and all such courses are a big asset for the business of the section.

Greater precautions to take care of the crowd had been taken at the finish than at any previous like contest.

About 450 policemen were stretched between Hotel Lenox and the Brighton line. This was 150 more than had even been called into use before.

Fifty 15,000 people were gathered in front of the hotel Lenox and the racers received an ovation there that put new life into them. There were in the neighborhood 25,000 people at the corner and vicinity of Massachusetts Avenue and Boylston street to greet the runners with a shout that was heard for miles. It was necessary to rope off Commonwealth Avenue.

Expert Praises Runners.

James B. Connolly, an expert on athletics, and others who saw the race, which it is estimated was watched at various points by something like 250,000, declared that the time made by the runners, taking into consideration the warmth of the day, was excellent.

The officials at the club house were delighted with the results. The crowds were handled in first-class shape, and there were no accidents of any character to mar the occasion.

Mayor Fitzgerald and his family followed the runners during the entire course in an automobile and the Mayor said it was a great exhibition of grit and skill.

This city is rapidly becoming a racing center of this section of the country, and in another year the conditions will be vastly improved upon.

BOSTON, April 20.—Aroused by the criticism which James H. Stark has made upon American patriots in his recently published book and interviews, a citizen of Denver sent yesterday to Stark, through the Boston American, the following telegram:

"For Heaven's sake, tell us, did the Americans win the war of the Revolution or not?"

Mr. Stark read the telegram, realized that it was "Patriots' day," but finished not from his task and prepared the following reply, in which he declares that the Americans did not win the Revolutionary war, but that the powers of Europe forced England to let her colonies in America go for himself:

"With the assistance of Holland, France, Spain and the whole maritime world, the colonies did achieve their independence, but that independence was not won by the colonies."

"Had England been free to devote her attention to stamping out the uprising in the colonies, it would have been as easy as stepping on a bedbug."

"And if that uprising had been crushed at that time, the American schools would now be teaching that George Washington et al. were misguided men who led their followers to useless deaths."

"Had the Confederate states been given one-fourth the assistance that the colonies received, there would not now be an independent American nation. England was compelled by the powers to let her American colonies go."

"They achieved their independence, but that independence was more or less a present from the combined nations that fought England to make it possible."

Another verdict of $2500 was awarded by the superior court of Massachusetts at Lawrence on Monday in the case of Frederick H. Cate of Haverhill, who was injured in this city on July 22, 1905. Cate came here on that date to watch the blowing up of Henderson's Point, and was a passenger on the Haverhill car, and was in the Plains loop on the Portsmouth street railway car, which collided on Leileton road, injuring a number of people, mostly residents of this city.

Cate was injured about the legs and though the company has made several attempts to close the case, with a liberal sum for the plaintiff it could not be brought to a head and was finally heard by a jury. Much expert testimony was introduced during the trial.

The Death at York of a Former Resident of this City

A Good Man Gone to His Reward In the death of Alfred M. Lang, for many years connected with the general store as messenger, the government loses a faithful employee and this city a good upright citizen. He had a good record, not only in civilian life but in the army where he served in many hard battles while in the division of General Hancock.

Will Hustle the Work on the Maine Constructor Robert, head of the hull division, has already got the work of this branch of the manufacturing department well in hand. When seen by a reporter of the Herald today he appeared much pleased with his lot at this station and seemed inclined to do anything that will produce work for the division of which he is head. He is giving much attention to the work on the U. S. S. Maine and will use every effort to push the same on this ship.

NO MORE JOY RIDING FOR THEM

Two Sports Have Their Troubles in an Automobile

A well known Market street business man who sports an automobile invited two of his friends to a joy ride recently and the next man who gets either of them in a choo choo wagon will have to work overtime to accomplish his point. Every thing was lovely as long as the machine had a straight, smooth course on the asphalt but when it started bucking buildings, trees and stone posts at the corner of Cabot and Islington street there was trouble.

One of the occupants who wanted to save the machine as well as himself took a chance in putting his leg as a fender and as a result he is making the trips back and forth to his work with the limp of an old soldier and the only time he produces any speed in his movements is at the sound of an auto horn. Jaunting cars on a wild rampage in the old country had nothing on Mac's trip in the auto.
